

COPACAPS IN CATTLE & DEER

- Provides long term effective copper supplementation
- High safety margin
- No withholding periods
- Four convenient capsule sizes to suit the needs of beef cattle, dairy and deer farmers

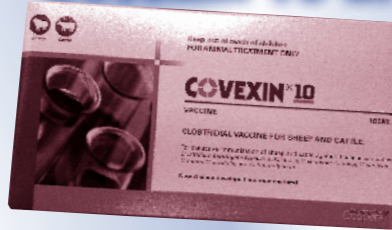

Copper levels drop through the winter as stock eat more soil contaminated pasture. Brassica crops are also very low in copper. The ingested soil has iron, sulphur and molybdenum, which tie up copper. A copper "bullet" to young stock can give dramatic growth rate responses.

KENNEL COUGH OUTBREAK

There is a New Zealand wide outbreak of canine kennel cough and the disease is rampant locally.

- Limit movement of dogs from farm to farm wherever possible
- Kennel cough vaccination significantly reduces the severity of the disease.
- Annual vaccination is required for good protection. If your dog is currently showing signs of kennel cough please isolate your dog and contact our vets for advice.
