

DENTAL DISEASE

Dental health is a very important part of your pet's overall health, and dental problems can cause, or be caused by, other health problems. Your pet's teeth and gums should be checked at least once a year by our helpful veterinarian to check for early signs of a problem and to keep your pet's mouth healthy.

Have your pet's teeth checked sooner if you observe any of the following problems ...

- Bad breath
- Broken or loose teeth
- Extra teeth or retained baby teeth
- Teeth that are discolored or covered in tartar
- Abnormal chewing, drooling, or dropping food from the mouth
- Reduced appetite or refusal to eat
- Pain in or around the mouth
- Bleeding from the mouth
- Swelling in the areas surrounding the mouth

Juno

Gracie Ruddenklau, Age: 9, Five Forks School.

My Dogs name is Juno
She's lost one leg don't y' know
She goes to the vet a lot
She can be annoying but she's not,
She can be a twit
But we love her quite a bit,
She loves to chase me
She's energetic can't you see,
She's always got a smile on her face
She gets muddy and is quite a disgrace,
She is quite smelly
She should be on the telly,
She's a survivor dog
And she's not a hog,
She's a survivor dog!!!
Soo that's Juno

Fireworks Season

Think about your pets this Fireworks Season!

Fireworks can be purchased from the 2-5 November, so now is the time to start thinking about your pets as many animals find fireworks scary. It doesn't have to be that way though, so don't ignore the problem.

Now is the time to chat to our friendly veterinarians about how we can support your pets. There are new and safe medications that can relieve yours pets anxiety but these should be organised in advance.

There are also lots of simple things you can do to help your pet deal with fireworks including close windows and curtains to muffle the noise and put on some music or a TV to mask the fireworks sound. You can also create hiding places around your home so they can feel safe.

Cotton's Corner

Gosh I do love this time of year – all the cute baby animals arriving. There's also the gorgeous sunshine, perfect to curl up in and have a well deserved snooze, or to do a spot of bird watching (only watching of course, I've been told not to touch).

At the Veterinary Centre we are very busy at the moment, out and about helping to deliver all those new fur babies that need a little assistance, but they're still very keen to help out any of you young humans if you need any advice on rearing your brand new pets! So if you're looking for any tips on how to best care for those new found friends, make sure your big people pop down to see us at any of our clinics and we'll be only too happy to help. Enjoy the sunshine! ... Cotton
